

TRANSACTION FACILITATIONS

Whether you are looking to sell your company or purchase another company, you may already have identified the company that is interested in purchasing your company or the company that you want to purchase. But you understand there are many steps along the way that can impede or prevent your planned transaction from occurring. You also understand the value of having a third party assist in helping to manage the transaction process and act as a mediator when issues arise – as they almost always do.

That is where Stony Hill Advisors Inc. can help you. We provide a facilitation service that works with you to help you successfully complete your identified transaction.

Our facilitation service includes:

- Educating you on the many and often complex steps that are required to successfully complete a transaction.
- Helping you create a transaction project plan.
- Helping you conduct due diligence.
- Helping you collect your data and build a dataroom, typically required for a sell-side transaction.
- Helping you manage communications between the two parties.
- Acting as a mediator when issues arise.
- Assisting you through the closing process.
- Assisting you with any post-closing processes.

Having a third party support you with your transaction can make the difference between a successful and a failed transaction.
